WESTERLY MAN WINS GOLD MEDAL

George L. Stillman Given Award at Exhibition of Rhode Island Horticultural Society—Fred Norton Badly Burned by Electricity—Westerly Exhibit Admired at Kingston Fair.

George L. Stillman of Westerly was awarded a gold medal by the judges at the annual September exhibition of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society, at the Narragansett hotel, for a new variety of dahlias, "the Millionaire."

More than 5,000 blooms were on exhibition in the show. Mr. Stillman won second prize in the professional classes for twelve named and show dahlias, and first prize for the best, show and fancy dahlias, shown by its originator in the open classes.

Fred Norton, who is employed as electrician by the Classic Film company, was badly burned Tuesday afternoon while the troupe was taking a picture on a trolley car in Dixon square. Norton's left hand came in contact with a curtain wire on the trolley which was grounded and he sustained a shock of about 550 volts. His left hand and arm were badly burned by the electric current and he was taken to the Rhode Island drug store where he was attended by Dr. M. H. Scanlon. He was unable to work with the company Wednesday, which performed for the movies on the exterior and interior of the Rhode Island Hotel.

Wednesday was Grangers Day at the Kingston fair and special trains brought record-breaking crowds to Kingston.

For the fourth consecutive year the various granges of the state competed in a float contest for prizes. Among those entered were the granges of Narragansett, Hope Valley, Exeter, Ashaway, Slocum, Quonochontaug, Richmond and Westerly.

In the poultry hall the usual varieties of plain and fancy barnyard fowl were proudly exhibited in the new steel sanitary cages installed this year by the society.

Especially noteworthy is the showing of fancy breeds made by the Rhode Island college. In addition to hens, roosters and pullets there is a good display of turkeys, including a pair of the white variety; pigeons, doves, ducks and geese. Curiously enough the cat show is housed along with the fowl. One solitary black cat stared contemptuously from a cage, too indignant even to accept a proffered sprig of catnip which a fair visitor flicked from the garden truck division nearby.

The display of examples of household arts and crafts this year is extensive. There are hand woven and braided rugs of quality design and real hand crocheted bedspreads that would please the seasoned collector of rare and beautiful things.

The painting and drawing division are several very good items, including a collection of free hand pencil pictures by E. Stewart Greene of Westerly.

All told there are more than 700 exhibits. Secretary John A. Allen is on hand again this year. This is his 35th year at the Kingston fair.

Special interest centers about the exhibits of labor saving devices and automobiles—exhibits which were beyond the ken of men when the Kingston fair began its career as an institution to Rhode Island farmers, stock raisers and "city folks." There are many varieties of engines, home electric lighting and power systems, tractors, ensilage cutters and saw mills, and of course the farm folk flocked to the fair, most of them in motor cars. One found it necessary to choose a winding pathway through the grounds to avoid stumbling over automobiles.

The exhibition pavilions are well stocked with the products of the farm and grange and the household arts are splendidly represented. In the horticultural show George Stillman of this town is showing a wonderful collection of dahlias and the Carmichael brothers of Shannock exhibit gladioli of nearly every variety. The entries in pears and apples are large, though other fruits are not plentiful.

In the cattle entries, larger this year than ever before, the leading breeds are Holsteins and Ayrshires. The horse department is in charge of Isaac T. Hopkins of Kingston, who succeeds W. R. Carpenter.

Thursday will be Governor's day. Governor Beekman and members of his staff will be guests. The addresses from the grandstand will be made by the governor, Senator Lippitt and Congressman Walter R. Stinson.

Friday, usually Children's day in the annuals of the Kingston fair, will be designated as Firemen's day. A real old-time muster is promised, with a parade, playacts and hose reel races. The muster will be held under the auspices of the Narragansett Steam Fire Engine company of Peace Dale. The prizes will amount to $25 in cash, divided as follows:

Engine Contest—First, $125; second $75; third $50; fourth $25. Reel race—First, $25; second $15; third $10. On this occasion all firemen will be admitted to the grounds free. Members of the muster committee are T. F. Salzer, chairman; James F. Tully, secretary and treasurer; Clifford H. Wilbur, James E. Sykes, John A. Towers, Fred Bristol, Jr., and Irving Wilbur.

The hand tub companies entered are King Philip of Bristol, Pocasset of Knightsville, Volunteer of East Greenwich, Washington No. 1 of Wickford, Fire King of Pawtucket, Grange of Providence and Star No. 1 of Westerly. The hose companies are the Pocasset, Fiskeville and Phenix.

It is reported on good authority that Odori and Marzoli, granite workers, have purchased the Deshaite granite works on Oak street from David McD. Newell.

Rumor also has it that Mr. Newell is to remove to Lee, Mass. Despite the fact that the report is based upon good authority and is becoming generally known about town, both Mr. Newell and Mr. Odori have refused to acknowledge it. The former, when seen recently, was most emphatic in denying the rumor, and added that there was no foundation or a word of truth in the report.

The following jurors have been summoned to serve at the September session of the superior court for Washington county, which will open at the courthouse in Kingston next Monday.

HEARING ON TRANSHIPMENT RATES

Proposals by the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Other New England Railroads Brought Before Examiner William A. Disque of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

New York, Sept. 13.—The hearing on the proposal by the New York, New Haven and Hartford and other New England railroads to cancel proportional and transshipment rates on through consignments to southern and western points was concluded here today before Examiner William A. Disque of the interstate commerce commission. Counsel for both sides were directed to submit briefs within thirty days.

Witnesses today included representatives of New England industries which would, according to the testimony, be affected if the present rates were increased. F. W. Murray, traffic manager of the National Fireworks company of West Hanover, Mass., asserted that higher tariffs would injure his shipments to New Orleans, Texas and Pacific coast points. The similar statements were made by Charles E. Butman, traffic manager of the New England Confection company of Boston; F. P. Rising, representing the Boston Wool Trades association, and J. H. McCammon, traffic manager of the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber company.

Testimony given yesterday on behalf of the Clyde and Malloy lines, to the effect that if the proposed new railroad rates were allowed the steamship companies would either have to withdraw from competition or else charge higher tariffs, was supplemented today by similar testimony by Lewis Walke, general freight agent of the Old Dominion Steamship company.

The railroads reiterated today that such assertions by the water carriers were irrelevant to the roads' petition.

Waterbury.—Watertown is anxious to purchase its water supply from the city of Waterbury, and the Waterbury fire district has communicated with the board of public works to ascertain if it will be possible to make arrangements.

An Old English Handbill

advertised a public warning about coffee in its early days as a beverage in England. It said:

"You are not to drink it after supper unless you intend to be watchful, for it will hinder sleep for three or four hours."

That was 250 years ago. Today it is a well-known fact that sleeplessness, brought on by coffee drinking, is due to the presence of the drug, caffeine, in coffee. It is also known that coffee drinking is a common cause of various other ills.

POSTUM

was devised especially for people who should not use coffee, but who like a hot beverage with meals. It resembles mild Java coffee in its snappy taste, but contains no coffee, caffeine, nor any harmful element.

Postum is good for old and young, and can be drunk freely at any time of the day with pleasure and comfort.

"There's a Reason"
